Root Medicine and Winter Tonics

By Anna Fernandez

The life force in a biannual or perennial plant is evident in the greenness of its leaves and the vibrancy of its flower. As it begins to die back in the fall, that life force is not lost; it is transferred into the root, which embraces it and keeps it safe until the next growing season.

Thinking of it this way, when using roots as medicines, one can see why the best time to harvest such a treasure is in the late fall or early spring — when the life force is still strongest in the root.

Winter is an important time to take certain root medicines because of the nature of our winter lifestyles; eating heavier foods and spending less time outdoors results in less digestive vitality and lack of activity, which can make us vulnerable to illness. Certain roots can be taken daily over time to restore and tone the organs and systems, bringing about overall health and well-being and potentially preventing imbalance and disease. Herbs taken in this way are called tonics. Other roots are taken for a short duration in response to acute symptoms.

Many local Michigan plants have roots that are considered tonics. Some are abundant, well known, and considered to be like a food. Others are more medicinal and often harder to find. Southeast Michigan boasts an array of both.

Dandelion root is an easy-to-find tonic herb known for its nutritive value. It is gentle yet effective for improving liver, gallbladder, and overall digestive function, and it may also help normalize blood sugar levels. This underutilized plant may play a key role in preventative medicine.

Burdock root is rich in minerals and can be eaten in stir-fries and is great in soups. Burdock is used as a tonic to support the liver and aid in digestion. It helps to restore normal function by improving metabolism and aiding in the elimination of waste products. This root also stimulates circulation in the skin and is frequently used for skin conditions, especially ones of the dry and scaly variety that often present during the winter months.

The root of the Astragalus plant is used as an immune tonic to strengthen the overall immune system, build resistance, and prevent common infections. Mild in flavor, it is a great addition to hearty winter soups.

Adaptogens are a group of herbs considered to be the ultimate tonics. Many of the most highly revered adaptogens are roots. These herbs increase overall health and vitality by modulating the body's response to stressors via the endocrine system, which in turn boosts immune and nervous system function. Some adaptogen roots include Ginseng, Ashwagandha, Eleuthero, and Licorice.

Echinacea root, although not considered a tonic, is widely used as an immune boosting herb taken over a short duration in frequent doses at the first sign of a sniffle. It boosts white blood cell count and encourages the body to do the housecleaning necessary to stay healthy.

These roots can be harvested and made into winter medicines, including teas, tinctures, syrups, capsules, and so on. Alternatively, you can find them in many forms at your local herbalist or health food store.

These roots are a small representation of herbs available for maintaining wellness. It makes sense that the deep, earthy energy of roots would play a role in helping us stay healthy in the long, dark, and cold winter months.

Bringing Youthful New Leadership to Jewel Heart

The Crazy Wisdom Interview with Spiritual Director Demo Rinpoche

By Madonna Gauding
Photography by Hilary Nichols

(Editor's Note: Here's some historical context for this in-depth interview with Demo Rinpoche, Resident Spiritual Director of Jewel Heart Tibetan Buddhist Learning Center, based in Ann Arbor. Jewel Heart was founded in the mid-1980's by Gelek Rinpoche, Aura Glaser, and Sandra Finkel. Gelek Rinpoche was an incarnate lama within the Gelugpa tradition of Tibetan Buddhism. "Rinpoche" means "previous jewel" in the Tibetan tradition, and it is an honorific most often given to someone recognized as a reincarnation of a previous master.

Jewel Heart has had an impact not just locally, but nationally and internationally, as a center for Buddhist teaching.

A few years before Jewel Heart's founding, in 1982, Aura Glaser founded Crazy Wisdom Bookstore, which she located on East Ann Street. She moved the store to North Fourth Avenue in 1984. Glaser sold the bookstore to Jonathan Ellis and Bill Zirinsky in 1989. Jon Ellis departed after four months but has remained a trusted mentor. Bill Zirinsky and Ruth Schekter, husband-and-wife, have shepherded forth the bookstore for the last 32 years. They moved the store to Main Street in 1999 and added a Tea Room. The Crazy Wisdom Journal began in 1995. In its January thru April 2001 issue (# 17), the cover story was Zirinsky's multi-dimensional 16,250 word interview with Gelek Rinpoche. It is still available on our archive at: <http://bit.ly/gelekrinpoche>. So, Crazy Wisdom's connectedness to Jewel Heart goes back many years.)

Demo Rinpoche, a 40-year-old Tibetan Buddhist monk and incarnate lama, who has spent most of his life studying in monasteries in India with thousands of other monks, and under the Dalai Lama's direct supervision, now lives on his own in a simple apartment in Ypsilanti, Michigan. He is the nephew of the late Gelek Rinpoche, founder of Jewel Heart Tibetan Buddhist Learning Center. Since 2018, he has served as Jewel Heart's Resident Spiritual Director. He is available to teach anyone who would like to learn about the Tibetan Buddhist path.

Rinpoche has an impressive resume of lifelong monastic and religious studies starting at age five, when he entered Drepung Loseling Monastery in Mundgod. He officially joined the monastery in 1987 where he spent nearly thirty years of uninterrupted education in meditation, debate, memorization, philosophy, and composition under the Dalai Lama's direct supervision. After completing his studies at Drepung, Rinpoche received the highest monastic degree of Geshe Lharampa from Gelugpa University in India in 2011. He continued his studies at Gyume Tantric College and was a visiting scholar under the auspices of the Dalai Lama at Sarah College of Higher Tibetan Studies in Dharamsala. At the request of the late Gelek Rinpoche, Demo Rinpoche came to the United States, where he received his master's degree in Inter-Religious Engagement from Union Theological Seminary in New York City in 2018.

Please note: Demo Rinpoche spells "Rinpoche" with an "n" while Gelek Rinpoche spelled "Rimpoche" with an "m" later in his life.

Madonna Gauding: Hello Rinpoche, it's great to have this opportunity to talk with you. I would like to introduce you to the Crazy Wisdom community, let them know about your background and how you came to teach at Jewel Heart Tibetan Buddhist Learning Center in Ann Arbor. Let's start with your relationship to the late Gelek Rinpoche, the founder of Jewel Heart, who passed away in February of 2017. Can you tell me how you are connected?

Demo Rinpoche: In this life, Gelek Rinpoche was my uncle. I am the son of his youngest brother. That is one relationship. Then, in the Tibetan Buddhist tradition, we have this system of reincarnation. In that system, I am the reincarnation of Gelek Rinpoche's father, who was also my grandfather, the late Demo Rinpoche. My grandfather was the 10th reincarnation of the first Demo Rinpoche, and I am the 11th.

Madonna Gauding: When did you first know your uncle, Gelek Rinpoche?

Demo Rinpoche: I met him for the first time in India, in 2001, when I was about 20 years old. At that time, he invited me to visit him in Ann Arbor and to meet his students at Jewel Heart. My first visit was in 2006, and after that, I visited him often, about every two years. During that time, he encouraged me to consider a Western university degree after I completed my monastery training. In 2016, at his request, I began my studies toward a master's degree in Inter-Religious Engagement at Union Theological Seminary in New York. Unfortunately, my uncle, Gelek Rinpoche, passed away in 2017. It was his wish that, after I finished my degree, I make myself available to teach Jewel Heart sangha members. Even though Jewel Heart has branches in New York, the Netherlands, Singapore, and elsewhere, I felt it would be best to be with the community in Ann Arbor. In 2018, after I completed my degree at Union Theological Seminary, I moved to Ann Arbor and became the Resident Spiritual Director of Jewel Heart.

Madonna Gauding: A lot of people are intrigued by the reincarnation system in Tibetan Buddhism, so I would like to explore that a little further. How old were you when you were identified as the reincarnation of your grandfather, the 10th Demo Rinpoche?

Demo Rinpoche: I was about five years old when several incarnate lamas recognized me as the reincarnation of Demo Rinpoche. They felt I was different than other kids my age and saw several other signs that led them to that conclusion, but they wanted to know if His Holiness the Dalai Lama would agree. Around that time, my parents had wanted to visit His Holiness and they took me with them to his residence in Dharamsala, India. The first moment the Dalai Lama saw me he said, "Welcome Demo Rinpoche!" That was a bit of a shock. Six months after that meeting, after conducting special meditations and tests, the Dalai Lama confirmed I was the reincarnation of my grandfather, and I became the 11th Demo Rinpoche. After my official recognition, His Holiness arranged for me to go to Drepung Loseling Monastery in Mundgod, India because, before the Chinese takeover, when Drepung Loseling was in Tibet, all the Demo Rinpoches had trained there. So, in 1987, at the age of five, I joined Drepung Loseling.

MG: Was it hard to leave your parents and your family at such a young age?

DR: In the beginning I missed my parents, but after a short while

I became used to life in the monastery. None of the other kids had their parents with them and my tutors took good care of me, so I didn't feel lonely. When I first came to the monastery, I was a little kid and not yet capable of learning Tibetan philosophy and dharma teaching. So, my first years were spent learning how to read, write, and memorize. Then, when I was ten years old, I started my formal monastic training and began attending dharma teachings. I lived and studied there for quite a long time and eventually received the highest monastic degree, the Geshe Lharampa degree, in 2011.

MG: I understand that monastic training involves a lot of memorization. That's something we don't do in the West. Our kids rarely learn to memorize. After you got your Geshe Lharampa degree, you went on to study at the Gyume Tantric College in Karnataka, India. Was the training different than at Drepung Loseling?

DR: Both the training and daily life were different at Gyume. We had some religious studies, but we spent a lot of time doing spiritual practice, saying long prayers and sadhanas. We would get up really early in the morning, sometimes one or two a.m. They would tell us at the last minute in the evening when we were going to be awakened the next morning, and it would be different every day. We would be in prayer session until the afternoon, maybe three or four o'clock. It was really just a lot of intensive practice. We could take a break for maybe 15 minutes. That was it. At Drepung Monastery, we had our daily spiritual practice, but we spent a lot of time in teachings. Then, we would also practice debate. Our way of debating is a special invention of Tibetan Buddhism. In India, there had always been religious debate, where two people would present opposing views of a topic. The Tibetan system is unique. It is very formal and physical and takes place outside in a debate yard. There are lots of rules. One person sits and the other stands, and every point the standing person makes, he has to make a hand gesture and move in a certain way. He is required to follow certain rules of logic, and to use certain language. This is a very active and dynamic form of debate. There is no way one can debate in a sleepy mood...

How Your Grandmother Paved the Way for Green Living

From Our Archives

Find the Substitute

There's an old saying from the WWII Era in the United States: "Use it up, wear it out, make it do, or do without." That last tip, "do without," while great for the environment—as it means not rushing out to buy the latest of something every time it's available—can seem daunting. I like to think of it as a challenge. My grandmothers certainly did! Instead of thinking of it as "doing without," I think of it as finding the substitute. Do I need to run to the store just to buy another can of black beans, or will pinto work okay in this recipe? Do I have to have the latest crop top this season, or can I repurpose a shirt I have on hand? I noticed my grandmother would alter clothes that were going to be passed down for each of her four daughters so that they would feel fresh and new. This helped divert waste from landfill and cut down on consumption of new goods too!

Gardens Are a Girl's Best Friend

Don't tell Marilyn Monroe, but in my grandmother's opinion, a garden, not a diamond, was a girl's best friend. While it may not be practical for everyone to grow their own food for a litany of reasons, you may have something you can grow for yourself in your home. The shortest supply chain for food, and therefore the one with the least environmental impact, is the food you grow at home. Sure, not everyone has time for a full-fledged garden, but maybe you could grow a tomato plant on your back porch or start an herb garden in your window. Don't be afraid to start small and try something new. I personally didn't inherit my grandmother's green thumb, but it may be worth a shot to see if growing some of your own food at home might work for you. If you're in an apartment, a dorm, or another small space, try looking into some creative gardening solutions online. You'd be surprised what you can do with limited outdoor space!

No, Plastic is Not Okay

Grandma may not have had a cute reusable tote bag she took with her to the market, but she did opt for paper bags, because the plastic ones weren't as widely available or popular in her era. If you're able, opting for paper bags over the thin plastic ones that are extremely difficult to recycle, can be a huge help for the environment. They're sturdier and can fit more in than plastic bags as well. Try to opt for this green option like Grandma did, whenever you can.

Our grandparents may not have mastered the art of sustainable living, but like many things in our lives, they laid incredibly firm foundations for us to build on and learn from. Take into account their wisdom. Just because something is the way it has always been done doesn't automatically mean it's the better way to live. However, when it comes to these tips, it turns out Grandma really did know best.

By Alaina Lightfoot

My grandmothers were many things. Wise, kind, the best at giving hugs, and the best at baking cookies, as I'm sure your own grandmothers were. When I look around at things as they are today, I often wonder what my maternal grandmother, who lived her life as a farm wife, would have thought of the fast pace of our current world. I don't have to wonder what she could have taught me about the ongoing efforts I make to live more sustainably, though. I learned those tips from watching both of my grandmothers throughout my life. In fact, you may have noticed these patterns in your own life if you were fortunate enough to have spent time with older relatives growing up. I've compiled five of what I consider my grandmothers' best sustainable living methods. Practices which came to them as naturally as baking cookies and loving their grandchildren.

Minimize Your Daily Travel

I don't mean this tip in the sense that we should be more conscious about our vacations (although that is an important thing to consider, that's a point for another day). I mean that if you think back, you may remember your own grandmother having some kind of "errand day." Mine lived on a farm 15 miles from the nearest town. When she would go shopping, she'd do it for a few weeks at a time, and she'd compress all her errands into one day so as to not have to drive back and forth multiple times. By doing this, she saved herself countless trips and probably loads in carbon emissions from her drives. Think about what errands you can squeeze into the same day or even the same side of town. Many people do this naturally! Taking it a step further, many people in the 1950s and 60s who were in more urban environments would walk between multiple stores, minimizing their drives as much as they could.

Reuse and Repurpose

I'm not encouraging you to turn your home into the kind where no yogurt container is thrown away, but think of what ordinary things you have on hand that can be reused. Who hasn't opened a butter tub in the fridge at Grandma's only to find it contains leftovers? Or pried open a biscuit tin only to discover it full of sewing supplies? Do you need the latest in aesthetic zero waste storage solutions, or would rinsing out that old pasta sauce jar work just fine? Our grandparents were prolific at getting their money's worth from things and, as a result, often diverted perfectly good items from the landfill while managing to not contribute more to the waste stream by buying a new product they didn't really need.

Crazy Wisdom Book Pick of the Week

Anyone can become a mermaid. To do so, you must develop the vibration of water in your energy field and learn to perceive as mermaids do. In this how-to guide, Elyria Swann shares her personal experiences, beginning at age 10, with astral mermaids, water spirits, and other magical creatures and offers wisdom and practical lessons from the watery kingdom to reveal the path to becoming a mermaid.

Swann details how to connect to water as a living presence and awaken to its magic, as she did as a child. Exploring how to develop mermaid energies, she shows how to make friends with fish and develop personal and spiritual connections with them and other aquatic animals, including how to communicate through dreams, meditations, and visions. She explains how to embody the vibration of water in your energy field by integrating archetypes of water spirits and watery concepts such as empathy, unconditional love, eco-consciousness, and stillness. She explores how to develop relationships with astral allies like krakens, gorgon medusas, and selkies as well as protection techniques to use when making contact with spiritual beings. Channeling the merfolk she has built personal relationships with, Swann sheds light on the inner workings of the mermaid realm, offering insight into their innermost thoughts, states of being, and how they live.

Applying Vipassana in Daily Life and Seeing Its Progression Along the Path with Celeste Zygmunt • Monthly, First Mondays: January 3, February 7, March 7, April 4, May 9 • 7 - 8:30 p.m. • This class is designed for those who are dedicated to deepening their experience of the Dharma and moving further along the path. Exercises are offered which are informed by Celeste's nearly 30 years of Vipassana study and practice under Aaron and Barbara. Suggested donation: $75-$250. Contact om@deepspring.org, 734.477.5848; deepspring.org.

Putting Out the Nervous System's Fire: Meditations for Coping in Crisis with Amy Hertz • Weekly Fridays: January 7 - April 29 • 4 - 5 p.m. • Settling the mind is tough in the best of times, but when we are hit with circumstances that change our reality, getting access to that part of ourselves that can think clearly and problem solve becomes nearly impossible. Using the breath, writing exercises, and guided meditations, we'll explore ways to calm the body's threat response and regain balance. Free. Donations welcome. Contact 734-994-3387, programs@jewelheart.org; jewelheart.org/free-weekly-virtual-programs.

Movement and Meditation Class Facebook Live with Trevor Chaitanya Eller • Weekly Fridays, starting January 7 • 12 - 1 p.m.; or Saturdays, starting January 22 - 9 - 10 a.m. • Movement and Meditation classes are a mix of gentle yoga and Chinese cultural exercises used as preparation for meditation. Triple Crane Retreat Center uses active exercise practices as a means to prepare for and deepen longer meditation sitting sessions. Donation. Contact Kamakshi at Office@TripleCraneRetreat.org, 734-713-6163; TripleCraneRetreat.org or facebook.com/triplecraneretreat.

Day of Mindfulness with Esther Kennedy, O.P.—Take a Fresh Look • January 8 • 10 a.m. • Come and See, Take a Fresh Look. As we begin this year of 2022, let us continue together on the path of awakening. We come with fresh enthusiasm to embrace the truth of who we are, as best we know our becoming. Our meditation practice can open us to see clearly our bodies, our hearts, our mind and our whole world. We practice to develop a wise and compassionate way to relate to the suffering and beauty of it all; to see for ourselves a deeper truth to life and to grow more free. For more information contact webercenter@adriandominicans.org.

Vipassana and Pure Awareness with John Orr • Wednesdays, January 12, 26, February 9, 23, March 9, 23, April 6, 20, May 11, 25, June 8 • 7 - 9 p.m. • The focus in this class is with deepening of Vipassana (Insight Meditation) and Pure Awareness. This class is for practitioners who already have the basics of Insight meditation and have the ability to be mindful in daily life situations. Suggested donation: $165-$550. Contact om@deepspring.org.

Path to the Awakened Heart: The Yoga Sutras of Patanjali with Robert Jacobs • Thursdays, January 13, 27, February 10, 24, March 24, April 7, 21, May 5, 17 • 7 - 8:30 p.m. • This class will explore the Yoga Sutras of Patanjali, an ancient text that is a guidebook for walking almost any spiritual, non-dual path. We will consider the Sutras from the point of view of Tantric Yoga, particularly the North Indian school of Kashmir Shaivism. Suggested donation: $150-$450. Contact om@deepspring.org, 734.477.5848; deepspring.org.

Cultivating Mindfulness: An Introduction with Libby Robinson, Ph.D., MSW • Saturday, January 15 • 2 - 4:30 p.m. • In this virtual class, participants will be introduced to the concept of mindfulness, the research on its benefits, and several practices—both meditation and informal mindfulness practices, that we can carry out during daily life. The session concludes with information on options for deepening one's mindfulness practice. Free. Contact Libby Robinson, 734-476-3070, libbyrobinson7@gmail.com; libbyrobinsonmindfulness.com.

Myriad of Meditations (7 classes in the series) with Karen Greenberg • Sundays: January 16, 23, 30, February 6, 13, 27 • 10 a.m. - 12:30 p.m. • Meditation is an essential component to spiritual evolution. Learn a myriad of meditation techniques, to discover which resonate for you. Learn meditations with fire, water, air, earth, with the Four Worlds, with different breathing, with Holy Geometry, sacred letters, powerful Archetypes, spiritual beings, qualities of G-D, with movement, music, toning, colors, scents, gemstones, and trees, including several guided meditations through the Tree of Life. $25 per class. Contact 734-417-9511, krngrnb@gmail.com; clair-ascension.com.

Reflective Meditation for Worriers via Zoom with Erica Dutton • Tuesdays, January 18 - February 15. • 6 - 7:30 p.m. • This series of classes will teach you a unique combination of mindfulness, insight, and awareness practices called Reflective Meditation. You will learn how to work with your worry through creativity, gentleness, and curiosity. This form of meditation allows for thoughts and uses them for insight into how your mind works. These insights will help you see how habit patterns, like worrying, develop, are maintained, and gradually fade. Patterns such as worrying are complex, often lifelong, and won't disappear overnight, but with gentle awareness, support, and exploration, worry can become less of a problem. $65 - $150. Contact Erica Dutton, 734-417-4385, eld0306@yahoo.com; ericadutton.com. Contact Erica Dutton at 734-417-4385; ericadutton.com.

Mindfulness-Based Stress Reduction via ZOOM with Libby Robinson, Ph.D., MSW • January 22 – March 19 • 2 - 4:30 p.m. • Mindfulness-Based Stress Reduction is the original mindfulness class developed by Jon Kabat-Zinn in the late 1970s at the University of Massachusetts Medical Center. It has been researched extensively and is associated with reductions in stress, anxiety, pain, depression, substance use, and increases in immune responses, attention, working memory, cognitive flexibility, psychological well-being, relationship satisfaction, and enhanced cognitive functioning. It is an 8-week class, meeting for 2.5 hrs/week, with a 4-hr retreat between classes #6 and #7. $300 (scholarships available).
